to Contradiction John He that isn't as important as you once thought it would be А lot of my work comes from thinking about the contradictions life. It's something i struggle with and I know I'm not alone in that. For example, the question: "What should I focus on in life? many contradictory answers at There are so any given time! You could say: focus on accumulating money. Or focus on a life of community and meaning. ۲ Or! Live for the moment! Or think super long term. l'm co· ming to realize that none of these are necessarily wrong or right. And part One reason it isn't as importan of the differences amongst people Whethat's more meaningful than you ever expected: perhaps is what the decide to focus on. One of my "favorites" is the tension between living for the moment and living for the future. How do I find some sort of balance with these things? What does that look like? What does Due idea or base of peace or base of pea that mean? It's re meaningful challenging to me. And so with this piece, I was kind of thinking abou that frustration and anxiety overall. Searching for peace in the contradictor nature of our existence C.Fla rolyn Flower and Christie Zimmer